

BBH Income Fund

Monthly Fund Update / November 2022

The BBH Income Fund (“the Fund”) returned 3.14% in November and the Bloomberg US Aggregate Index returned 3.68% during the month.

Short term interest rates rose in November as the inverted Treasury yield curve became more pronounced. The yield on 3-month Treasury bills (T-Bills) increased 28 basis points¹ to 4.35% during the month as the Federal Reserve (the Fed) raised rates. The 2-, 3-, 5-, and 10-year Treasury yields declined by 17-, 39-, 49-, and 44-basis points during the month, respectively.

At the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting on November 2nd, the Fed announced a 75-basis point hike in interest rates. As of November 30th, the markets priced in an expectation for a 50-basis point hike ahead of the Fed’s announcement at the next FOMC meeting on December 14th.

The gain in the Bloomberg US Aggregate Index was fueled by the decline in interest rates. Agency mortgage-backed securities (MBS) performed well during the month, despite the Fed’s efforts to reduce its balance sheet. Investment-grade corporate bonds outperformed similar duration Treasuries as their spreads declined. High yield corporate bonds and loans gained but underperformed investment-grade alternatives. Asset-backed securities (ABS) and commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) also gained but to a smaller degree than MBS and corporate bonds.

The Fund’s underperformance was attributed to the avoidance of MBS, which outperformed other structured credit alternatives during the month. Investment-grade corporate bonds also detracted from performance; specifically, property and casualty insurance names hindered performance. However, the Fund’s positioning in loans and high yield corporate bonds contributed to performance.

Credit valuations remain attractive and offer more opportunities to find durable credits² at attractive yields. During the month, we added positions to a cell tower ABS and corporate debt issued by banks, insurers, an automotive company, and a technology company. We remain measured, selective, and patient as we evaluate these emerging opportunities.

¹ Basis point (bps) is a unit that is equal to 1/100th of 1% and is used to denote the change in price or yield of a financial instrument.

² Obligations such as bonds, notes, loans, leases, and other forms of indebtedness, except for cash and cash equivalents, issued by obligors other than the U.S. Government and its agencies, totaled at the level of the ultimate obligor or guarantor of the Obligation. Durable means the ability to withstand a wide variety of economic conditions.

Overall Morningstar Rating™
As of November 30, 2022

Class I:

Star ratings are based on risk-adjusted return. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a fund is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its 3-, 5- and 10-year Morningstar Rating metrics. The Income Fund was rated against 562 funds in the Intermediate Core-Plus Bond category as of 11/30/2022. Past performance is not indicative of future results.

Credit Quality letter ratings are provided by Standard and Poor's, Moody's and Fitch and are presented as the higher of the three ratings. When a security is not rated by Standard & Poor's, Moody's or Fitch, the highest credit ratings from DBRS and Kroll may be used. Absent a rating from these agencies, we may display Private Credit ratings, if permitted by the issuer, which could include ratings from Egan-Jones Ratings Co. Credit rating exposure and composition are subject to change. Issues with credit ratings of BBB or better are considered to be investment grade, with adequate capacity to meet financial commitments. Issues with credit ratings below BBB are considered speculative in nature and are vulnerable to the possibility of issuer failure or business interruption.

Effective duration is a measure of the portfolio's return sensitivity to changes in interest rates.

Weighted Average Life of securities excludes US Treasury futures positions.

Yield to Maturity is the rate of return the portfolio would achieve if all purchased bonds and derivatives were held to maturity, assuming all coupon and principal payments are received as scheduled and reinvested at the same yield to maturity. This figure is subject to change and is not meant to represent the yield earned by any particular security. Yield to Maturity is before fees and expenses.

RISKS

Investors in the Fund should be able to withstand short-term fluctuations in the fixed income markets in return for potentially higher returns over the long term. The value of portfolios changes every day and can be affected by changes in interest rates, general market conditions and other political, social and economic developments.

The value of some bonds including asset-backed and mortgage-backed securities may be sensitive to changes in prevailing interest rates that can cause a decline in their prices. Mortgage related securities are subject to prepayment and extension risk. The Fund also invests in derivative instruments, investments whose values depend on the performance of the underlying security, assets, interest rate, index or currency and entail potentially higher volatility and risk of loss compared to traditional stock or bond investments.

Investing in the bond market is subject to certain risks including market, interest-rate, issuer, maturity, call, credit, and inflation risk; investments may be worth more or less than the original cost when redeemed.

Foreign investing involves special risks including currency risk, increased volatility, political risks, and differences in auditing and other financial standards. Prices of emerging market securities can be significantly more volatile than the prices of securities in developed countries, and currency risk and political risks are accentuated in emerging markets.

Below investment grade bonds, commonly known as junk bonds, are subject to a high level of credit and market risks and are considered speculative.

To the extent that the Fund experiences a large purchase or redemption on any business day, the Fund's performance may be adversely affected.

Bloomberg US Aggregate Bond Index: covers the USD-denominated, investment-grade (rated Baa3 or above by Moody's), fixed-rate, and taxable areas of the bond market. This is the broadest measure of the taxable U.S. bond market, including most Treasury, agency, corporate, mortgage-backed, asset-backed, and international dollar-denominated issues, all with maturities of 1 year or more. Neither Morningstar nor its content providers are responsible for any damages or losses arising from any use of this information. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. The Morningstar Rating™ for funds, or "star rating", is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed-end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 126 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods. The BBH Income Fund was rated against the 562 funds in the Intermediate Core-Plus Bond category for the Overall and three-year time periods ending 11/30/2022. The BBH Income Fund (Class I), received an Overall Morningstar Rating of 5 stars and a three-year rating of 5 stars.
